

CONTENTS

No. 1, JANUARY 1, 1936

No. 2, FEBRUARY 1, 1936

ANDREWES, C. H. A change in rabbit fibroma virus suggesting mutation. I. Experiments on domestic rabbits. Plate 14. 157

	PAGE
SHOPE, RICHARD E. A change in rabbit fibroma virus suggesting mutation. II. Behavior of the variant virus in cottontail rabbits.	173
ANDREWES, C. H., and SHOPE, RICHARD E. A change in rabbit fibroma virus suggesting mutation. III. Interpretation of findings.	179
LANDSTEINER, K. On the group specific A substance in horse saliva. II.	185
RAKE, GEOFFREY. Pathogenesis of pneumococcus infections in mice. Plates 15 and 16.	191
FLEXNER, SIMON. Respiratory versus gastrointestinal infection in poliomyelitis.	209
BUDDINGH, G. J. A study of generalized vaccinia in the chick embryo. Plates 17 to 19.	227
PEARCE, LOUISE, ROSAHN, PAUL D., and HU, CH'UAN-K'UEI. Studies on the etiology of rabbit pox. I. Isolation of a filtrable agent: its pathogenic properties. Plate 20.	241
ROSAHN, PAUL D., HU, CH'UAN-K'UEI, and PEARCE, LOUISE. Studies on the etiology of rabbit pox. II. Clinical characteristics of the experimentally induced disease. Plates 21 to 23.	259
MCNAUGHT, J. B., SCOTT, V. C., WOODS, F. M., and WHIPPLE, G. H. Blood plasma protein regeneration controlled by diet. Effects of plant proteins compared with animal proteins. The influence of fasting and infection.	277